Chief Special Adviser for New Female CEOs

SPECIAL ADVISOR TO CEOs

Libby Vincent is the founder of Hodology, an executive transition consultancy specialising in extending the tenure of C-level women by assisting them in making a strategic impact in their first 100 days.

After fifteen years working in FTSE 50 Tech and Finance as an expert in organisational change and transition, Libby's mission is now to transform the way women understand and approach gender politics and corporate dynamics. Described by her clients as the CEO Special Adviser, Libby has developed an approach to help women on the cusp of a transformational role to reach their highest potential.

Libby's corporate career path includes time the the COO Office at Barclays Corporate, and Head of Business Analysis for Just Eat Takeaway. Speaking engagements and media appearances have helped her to establish a reputation as a thought leader on post-covid leadership. Libby is an intersectional feminist and regularly contributes to conversations about equity and diversity.
